

2017-03-30 Come On, Come on, to the Technoparc Wetlands!
(English only)

This talk is sponsored by the Montreal Field Naturalists Club

Location: Fulford Hall, Montreal Anglican Diocese

1444 Union Street, 2nd floor

Time: 7:30 pm on Thursday March 30, 2017

What: Come hear Joel Coutu, the iconoclastic ornithologist, speak about his explorations of the Technoparc. Until his expeditions, discoveries and documentation, the Technoparc, one of the most densely populated parts of Quebec, was silent and unknown. Now it is cited as having the most birds species in the province of Quebec.

This humorous talk will guide you through his discovery of the endangered species, his amazement at their quantity and accessibility, and his struggle to ensure the preservation of their habitat.

Who: Joël Coutu regularly leads nature walks through the Technoparc. Don't miss this chance to learn about the hidden paths, secrets and lore of the birds, fauna and flora of the Technoparc Wetlands.
